TAX COMPROMISE IS TURNED DOWN BY THE PRESIDENT

White House Conference Results in Call Upon Treasury for New Estimates After F.D.R. Demands Full Revenue.

SENATORS HOPEFUL OF EARLY PASSAGE

Roosevelt Suggests No New Schedule and Does Not Insist Upon Tax on Corporate Surplus.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(UP) President Roosevelt tonight rejected the compromise tax bill as being inadequate and called upon democratic members of the senate finance committee at a White House conference to revise the measure so that it will yield the full $4,137,000,000 originally demanded.

Conferees insisted that the question of increasing normal income tax rates was not even discussed. It was learned that Mr. Roosevelt felt it plain that he wanted the additional revenue to come from higher levies on corporations.

The compromise measure tentatively agreed to by the finance committee late today would fall nearly $500,000,000 short of the amount Mr. Roosevelt asked for to balance the ordinary budget and to finance the bonus and farm programs. The committee scrapped the corporate tax proposal approved by the house and originally suggested by the President and substituted a provision to tax corporate income at 18 per cent and impose a flat 7 per cent levy on undivided profits.

Ask New Estimates. Members of the committee said after the White House conference that the treasury had been asked to submit new estimates on proposed revisions in the pending bill but declined to say what changes were being considered. It was learned, however, that at least one set of estimates would be based on the possible yield from graduated levies on undivided profits similar to the house provision.

Adoption of such a proposal, it was said, would make it possible to leave the corporate income tax at the present average of 15 per cent.

Acting Chairman William King, democrat, Utah, said the committee would resume work on the controversial bill at 2 p. m. tomorrow, at which time the treasury estimates will be available.

Robinson, acting as spokesman for the group, said the conference was "very satisfactory."

"We made no attempt to reach a definite conclusion," he said. "Some studies with reference to proposed sources of taxes will be made by the treasury and sent to the committee tomorrow afternoon the committee will resume its labor."

Processing Tax Omitted. Both Robinson and King admitted that the administration was seeking additional taxes to those now contained in the bill.

The President, it was said, made no objection to the committee's acceptance late today of an amendment by Senator Josiah Bailey, democrat, North Carolina, which would impose

Former Bar Head Named To Succeed Sen. Trammell

Scott M. Loftin, New Appointee, Says He Will Support Roosevelt.

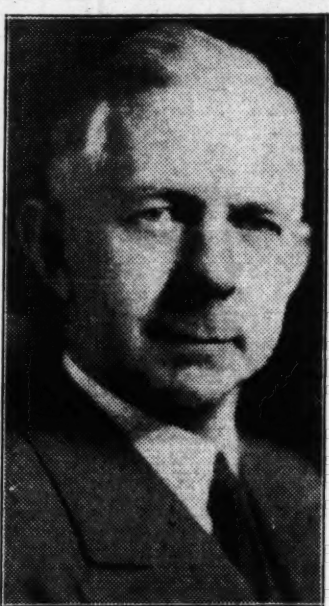

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 26.—(AP)—Scott Marion Loftin, of Jacksonville, will be Florida's junior United States senator until a successor to the late Park Trammell is elected in November and seated in January.

Governor Dave Sholtz today appointed Loftin, immediate past president of the American Bar Association, to fill the vacancy until after the election in which Sholtz hopes to be named senator for the term which expires in 1941.

Loftin, a democrat and a corporation lawyer, started for Washington soon after receiving the appointment. He said he would support President Roosevelt and the Robinson resolution proposing a new survey and possibly additional funds for the Florida canal project.

The appointee, a 58-year-old bachelor, said he did not seek the office and would not be a candidate for Trammell's unexpired term. Florida democrats are expected to nominate a candidate for senator at a special election, possibly in September. State republicans will nominate their candidate through action of the party executive committee.

In addition to Governor Sholtz, other seekers of the democratic sena-

ROAD CONTRACTS FOR $1,350,000 TO BE LET JUNE 12

Bids Sought Now Total $1,850,000; Work on Underpass Will Be Started Today or Tomorrow.

The State Highway Board yesterday issued a call for bids on approximately $1,350,000 worth of paving, grading and bridge projects to be let for contract on June 12. The letting will follow a $500,000 program to be contracted for June 5, making $1,850,000 worth of work to be let during the first half of the month. The projects for the June 5 letting have been announced previously.

As the call for bids went forth, Chairman W. E. Wilburn announced on behalf of the highway board that the actual signing of contracts for work let prior to the recent holding up of federal funds would take place today and tomorrow. These contracts include one providing for Atlanta's new North Side drive underpass. This contract, which has been awarded to the North East Construction Company, will be signed today.

Early Underpass Work. "Work on the underpass should start tomorrow or Thursday," Wilburn said. "The contractor already has his equipment in Atlanta and there should be no delay. The job will be finished by early fall."

Included in the list submitted to contractors yesterday was a project for the paving of an additional five and a half miles on the new Atlanta-Buford highway. This stretch begins immediately south of Duluth and ends at Suwanee creek. When it is completed, about six miles of the new highway will remain unpaved and Chairman Wilburn said the board hoped to let a contract for it before the Duluth-Suwanee job was completed.

"This new route to Buford, Gainesville, Cornelia and points to the north

THOUSANDS STRIKE IN COUNTRY-WIDE LABOR DISPUTES

Police, National Guard Officials Asked To Take Precautionary Measures in Half Dozen Sections.

By the Associated Press. Police and national guard officials were asked Tuesday night to take precautionary measures in more than a half-dozen sections of the country where thousands of industrial and agricultural workers were on strike.

At least 50,000 were involved in the walkouts, according to labor estimates, and thousands more were involved in disputes of a varying nature which threatened to cause strikes.

There were few instances of trouble in the strike centers, the most serious being clashes between strikers and non-strikers in the California vegetable fields where three men have been shot.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared the strikes were "a manifestation of what was bound to follow the supreme court's decisions destroying such great principles as the NRA and the Guffey act established."

At Akron, Ohio, 30 union workers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company awaited trial on charges of violating a state anti-riot statute. Three national guard officers watched the plant.

Guard Accused. At Portsmouth, Ohio, an affidavit was filed in municipal court charging a special guard with the shooting of a worker during the Steel Corporation with directing company guards to fire 40 or 50 shots at a group of pickets early Tuesday. The guard was Al Bridwell, 48, former sheriff of Scioto county. National guard officers investigated strikers' requests for protection by troops. About 5,500 workers are affected by the strike.

Union leaders at Syracuse, N. Y., ordered a strike of all workers in six

Rep. Huddleston, of Alabama, Hits Opponent With Bottle

Pair Meet in Cafe After Verbal Attack at Radio Station.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 26.—(AP) Luther "No Promise" Patrick, opponent of the veteran Representative George Huddleston, nursed today a knot on the head, put there by the diminutive and fiery Huddleston, in a cafe encounter.

Huddleston crashed a sauce bottle over Patrick's head last night when the latter approached him in the eating place.

The two met at the cafe after Patrick charged in a radio broadcast the representative said he would beat him with money, and Huddleston had shouted back over the air there was not "one syllable of truth" to the statement.

They were in separate studios at the radio station, and heard each other speak.

Huddleston has represented the ninth (Birmingham) district for 22 years. He led five opponents in the May 5 primary, but was forced into a runoff, June 9, with Patrick. Last year he gained prominence by leading the fight in the house on the "death sentence" clause in the administration holding company bill.

Several late diners witnessed the incident, and accounts varied as to what happened.

LUTHER PATRICK.

Patrick said: "I went in and shook hands with him. He and Assistant Solicitor J. M. Long were seated at a table. I asked him if he had entirely forgotten our conversation on the street corner a little while back. (About financing a campaign). He stood up and without any warning at all struck me across

GIVEN BEST JOBS ON ALL WPA WORK, LEADER DECLARES

Michigan Prosecutors Dig Into All Unsolved Crimes in Past Two Years for Traces of Activities of Hooded Night Riders.

PROBERS DECLINE KLAN'S AID OFFER

Will Call Grand Juries in Every County To Probe Order and Fire All Employe Members.

DETROIT, May 26.—(AP)—Michigan state and county officers will meet tomorrow to perfect plans to crush the Black Legion, hooded vigilante society whose members are accused of murder, kidnaping and flogging, as authorities in other states seek to trace ramifications of the secret night-riding band.

Attorney General David H. Crowley said tonight he would confer with Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea Wednesday on plans to unearth details of the society's activities and would discuss reports McCrea had signed an application for membership in the hooded society in 1934.

Even as these plans were announced, William Smith, 55-year-old farmer of near Waynefield, Ohio, told authorities he had been beaten, imprisoned and had his life threatened by the Black Legion when he rebelled during the initiation ceremony.

Waynefield is 15 miles south of Lima, Ohio, where V. F. Effinger, whom McCrea has sought for questioning, asserted the Black Legion has more than 6,000 members and that "it will go right ahead promoting the best interests of America and American citizens despite the unfortunate affair in Detroit."

See Possible Conspiracy. Effinger referred to the alleged "ritual execution" of Charles A. Poole, a WPA worker whose body was found in a ditch along a county road nearly a fortnight ago and for whose death 12 men are held here without bail on murder and kidnap warrants.

These developments followed fast upon revelation the Black Legion has a woman's auxiliary and charges by investigators that the black-robed band sought political power through terrorism.

Attorney General Crowley said at Lansing he was withholding judgment on reports linking the Wayne county (Detroit) prosecutor with the organization until their conference tomorrow, and commended McCrea's "fine effort to investigate legion activities thoroughly."

Crowley disclosed that he was studying the oath of the Black Legion, to ascertain if signers might be liable to prosecution for conspiracy to commit a crime. He said he had reached no decision, but expressed doubt that conspiracy charges could be preferred unless signing of the oath were followed by some overt act.

Planned Revolution. He said he doubted that the Black Legion had 135,000 members in Michigan, as some members claimed, and asserted that he had seen no documentary confirmation of statements attributed by Harry Colburn, chief investigator for McCrea, to unidentified members that leaders of the or-

THOUSANDS TO SEE QUEEN MARY SAIL

Great Britain's Huge Liner Will Seek Speed Record on Maiden Trip.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 26.—(AP)—Jubilant British poured into Southampton by the tens of thousands tonight to cheer a sea queen's send-off.

They came to watch with pride and awe the greatest event in modern British shipbuilding—the departure tomorrow afternoon of her maiden voyage to New York of the 80,773-ton liner Queen Mary.

Perhaps more than 500,000 of them will jam the docks and the decks of excursion steamers to wave and cheer the vast liner on her way to what may be the Atlantic's blue speed ribbon.

It promises to be the most exciting 30.35 knots an hour, the record set by the Atlantic's blue speed ribbon. Every detail, from the embarkation of passengers to engine room sounds, are to be broadcast to the empire and the world.

Hop for Speed. Unable to claim the Queen Mary as the largest ship in the world, the British cling steadfast to the hope she will prove the fastest.

To better the time of the French liner Normandie she must attain an average cruising speed of more than 30 knots an hour, the record set by the French vessel on her return voyage to New York.

On trial runs so far the Queen Mary has steamed 32.84 knots, faster than any liner ever has gone before, but only a fraction above the top speed of 32.3 knots achieved by the Normandie.

Tonight the Queen Mary, brilliantly lighted, resplendent in her color scheme of black, white and red, rested easily at her dock, a mountain of a ship which will carry 2,650 passengers in the utmost in British ideas of comfort and luxury.

The public was excluded from near-by docks today while the great ship, which departed at Epsom Downs, underwent a final grooming, and while

ENGLISH TROOPS, ARABS IN BATTLE

Martial-Law Is Rumored in Jewish Circles; Heavy Bombing Reported.

JERUSALEM, May 26.—(AP)—Rifles barked again today across the Biblical Jericho (Jadraelon) valley, scene of battles modern and ancient, in a brief skirmish between British-officered troops and Arab snipers.

The incident, from which no casualties were reported, served further to tighten the tension of the Holy Land, disturbed for more than a month by constant Arab-Jewish friction.

Bold attacks from ambush by armed Arab strikers fast were assuming the character of a rebellion in many parts of Palestine.

The British administration has failed to quell a six-weeks' old campaign of violence and terrorism, and there were rumors in Jewish circles of possible martial law.

Hands Put on Plan. Backed by British troops, High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope was determined to yield not an inch in his policy of upholding Jewish immigration in the face of Arab rioting against it.

A forced curfew had been extended tonight from Jerusalem to Gaza, Nabulus, Tulkarem, Safad, and the entire Palestine railway system.

The situation at Gaza, where the radio was the only communication with the outside, continued tense, and British families held to their refuge in the police barracks.

Nabulus was a hot bed of rioting, with Arabs continually firing from hillside surrounding the town.

At Jaffa, Tulkarem, Naxareth and Safad, bombs exploded all last night. This morning the police went into

N. J. FOREST FIRE CLAIMS 5 LIVES

15,000 Acres of Pine Woodland Damaged; Property Damage Unknown.

NEW GRETN, N. J., May 26.—(AP)—A forest fire which officials called one of the worst in New Jersey history smoldered in the southern part of Ocean county tonight, burning itself out after taking five lives and leaving 15,000 acres of pine woodland.

The disastrous flames were brought under control shortly after noon but more than 750 fire fighters, weary from 48 hours of fierce battle, continued to patrol the area to prevent a new outbreak.

No estimate of the property damage was available but besides the woodland, a few unoccupied houses and scores of hunting shacks and outbuildings were destroyed. A dozen settlements and municipalities, threatened with destruction last night and again today, were saved.

Tonight the smoldering fires and

Three Persons Burned As Plane Is Destroyed

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—An American Airlines plane caught fire in a field near the city airport today and the pilot, co-pilot and a passenger were burned as it was brought to an emergency landing and destroyed by flames.

Edward Coates, 30, of Detroit, the pilot, was most seriously burned when he stayed at the controls and brought the plane down safely while flames licked around him.

With the relief bill out of subcommittee, senate chiefs expressed confidence the administration of relief was near an end and forecast its passage by the end of the week. The

37 Persons Lose Lives In North Sea Mishaps

LONDON, May 26.—(AP)—Tragedy struck today at a ferry boat filled with gay children and at a fog-bound liner in the North sea, with a toll of 37 dead.

The ferry, carrying a party of youthful picnickers across the Thaya river near Austria, Czechoslovakia, capsized as the laughing children crowded the deck, waving to their friends on shore. Thirty children and one man drowned; nine were saved.

Shoreline watchers saw the ferry tip; heard the children scream in terror; saw them slide into the foaming water. A rearing horse, still hitched to its coach, tumbled onto the struggling victims from the boat.

In the North sea, six fishermen lost their lives when the steam trawler Pleador collided with the tanker San Salvador and foundered within three minutes.

Forteen other Pleador crewmen were rescued by the San Salvador, which was reported making badly and slipping toward the Tyne river. Boats set out to meet her.

Cobb Says: Socialists Debate Mooney Case

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 26.—The trouble with being a socialist is that, no matter what you start out to debate, you always find yourself on the wrong side of the issue.

Or, at least, such was the situation until recently. Now, for any socialist argument on any subject from German measles to the Great Wall of China, there is a new climax.

The tenants of a Bronx apartment house, mostly radicals, held a meeting, and, in accordance with the best radical traditions, drew up resolutions demanding that the management do this and that. Having read the fiery protest, the superintendent addressed the gathering:

"Now about not letting nobody hang out washing in the hallways—that's reasonable. I start beginning

"And as to keeping garbage off the front fire escapes—well, try not to."

"And letting the children use the back court for a play ground—well, there I also am agreeable."

"But, say, you do about the Scottsboro boys?"

CITY EMPLOYEES ASK HIGHER SALARY LEVEL

matter may be one of the major issues during the campaign.

Milam pointed out that the budget commission raised assessment values filed by city tax assessors by $9,000,000, which means that the estimate of the tax assessors was increased to provide $135,000, needed to balance the budget.

This amount must be made up before any other major outlays can be made, according to the finance committee head.

The finance committee also sent to the budget commission a proposal to purchase two giant new pumps for the fire department at a cost of $28,000 on a lease-purchase plan.

West Attacked.

During his discussion urging reinstatement of the salaries of city firemen, Carpenter dubbed West as "Graveyard West," asserting "it's Mr. West's business to see that resolutions of this kind get buried."

Councilman Raleigh Drennon, ninth ward, defended the city controller.

"There is one thing you can count on Mr. West doing," Drennon said. "If the city has the money, he will tell you so, but if it hasn't, he has the courage to tell you that, too. I've never found him trying to play politics."

Mrs. A. B. Valentine, of the citizenship committee of the firemen's women's auxiliary, presented Mrs. H. Grady Pierce, president of the group, who made a plea for reinstatement of the pay for the firemen.

She was followed by Frank McElroy, spokesman for the firemen's local, of which Hugh Kilgore is president.

Court Fight Seen.

Although Carpenter did not say positively that firemen are prepared to take their case to the courts in the event the mayor and council deny their demands for reinstatement of their salaries, he hinted it. He pointed to the 1925 referendum, which set the base pay for firemen and said it could be enforced in the courts.

"But these men are doing right about this thing," he added. "They are coming to you first, before going to court."

It is estimated that it will require at least $35,000 to reinstate the salaries of the firemen for the remainder of the year.

SENATE BODY FAVORS NEW RELIEF MEASURE

full committee was scheduled to act on the bill tomorrow, bring it up for floor debate Thursday.

The new money for Secretary Ickes was not included in the bill, but will be offered on the floor as an amendment because it would be subject to a point of order. A move to suspend the rules for its consideration will be made, subcommittee members said.

Under the amendment—representing a compromise of $700,000,000 for an appropriation of $700,000,000 for public works—Ickes would be permitted to continue the public works program from the revolving fund now available only for loans to states.

It was reported, although not confirmed by subcommittee members, that the lump sum appropriation for the Works Progress Administration would be voted directly to President Roosevelt instead of to WPA.

Leaders Confident.

Democratic members of the subcommittee sought to have the full committee act later today, so the bill would come up in the senate tomorrow, but republicans dissented.

Even with debate starting Thursday, administration leaders were confident that bill would be passed this week. They said it would not take more than two days on the floor.

Approval by the commerce committee today of a resolution reviving the Passamaquoddy and Florida ship canal issues was a complicating factor in the situation, however.

It was believed likely the resolution would be offered as an amendment to the relief bill, which would be sure to bring prolonged controversy.

Senator Bilbo, democrat, Mississippi, announced in the senate he would move to suspend the rules to add an amendment which would prohibit the employment of political candidates, on the WPA administrative staff.

called for the November election to fill the office.

Loflin is a member of the United States Supreme Court's Committee on Federal Court Reform. During his term as president of the American Bar Association, Loflin directed the organization's anti-crime campaign and its constitutional survey of New Deal policies.

He is general counsel for the Henry M. Flagler interests in Florida and co-receiver for the Florida East Coast Railway. As attorney or director he is connected with rail and ship lines, resort hotels, land companies, public utilities, banks, newspapers, insurance firms and other businesses.

He is a native of Montgomery, Ala., but came to Pensacola, Fla., with his family when he was nine years old. His father founded and edited the Pensacola Journal. He was educated in the public schools and at Washington and Lee University. He holds honorary degrees from Temple University and the University of Florida.

He was removed from his legal disability so that he might be admitted to the bar at the age of 19. He served one term in the Florida legislature and was a county representative in 1903, and was the youngest member of the house. The following year he was appointed prosecuting attorney.

He held this office 13 years, then moved from Pensacola to Jacksonville to become associated with the Flagler interests. When William A. Bolunt, general counsel for the Flagler companies, died Loflin took his place. Bolunt was president of the American Bar Association at the time.

Loflin is senior member of the Jacksonville and Miami law firm of Loflin, Stokes and Calkins.

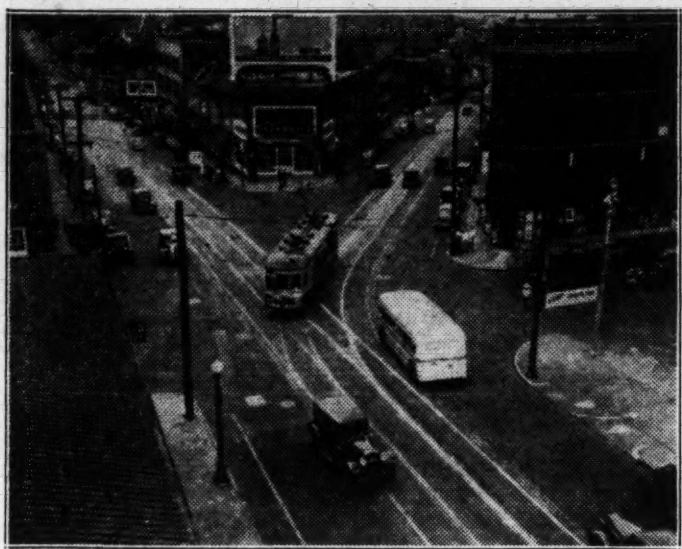

Loflin is well known in Atlanta, and has a sister residing here. Mrs. C. H. Cushman, of East Pace's Ferry road, wife of a prominent insurance executive. The Cushmans have a daughter, Miss Mary Cushman, a student at Shorter College, Rome.

Another sister, Miss Josephine Loflin, is at present visiting the Cushman's here.

Violations of Traffic Rules

REPORTER TAKES NOTE OF INFRACTIONS AT PEACHTREE-WEST PEACHTREE CORNER

PEACHTREE AND WEST PEACHTREE STREETS.

Acts of careless, discourteous and illegal driving, that send Atlanta's toll of traffic deaths and accidents ever upward, were noted yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Peachtree and West Peachtree streets at the rate of one a minute by a reporter representing The Constitution Safety Council.

Several times crashes between three and four automobiles, approaching the traffic signal at Peachtree and Baker streets from the north, were avoided only by drivers throwing on the brakes hurriedly. Here are some of the traffic violations noted over a half-hour period:

1:40 O'Clock: Driver of a black sedan sped across an amber light.

1:42 O'Clock: Three pedestrians idled across Baker street against a red light.

1:43 O'Clock: Drivers of three cars, coming towards the downtown section, "jumped" an amber light.

1:45 O'Clock: Woman in a green coupe, driving slowly, made a left turn from West Baker into Peachtree without signaling with her left hand. She blocked three other motorists.

1:46 O'Clock: Man driving a blue coupe makes a left turn without signaling.

1:48 O'Clock: Three drivers, two coming down Peachtree and one down West Peachtree, hurriedly threw on brakes to avoid a crash at the intersection, when the light changed.

1:51 O'Clock: Man looking over shoulder at a shop window while crossing Baker on a green light almost upset a boy on a bicycle.

1:52 O'Clock: A street car and two autos "jumped" an amber light.

1:54 O'Clock: Driver of a truck ran an amber light and made a left turn from East Baker into Peachtree without signaling.

1:56 O'Clock: A young girl walked across Peachtree against a red light.

2:01 O'Clock: Chauffeur driving several women in a dark limousine made a left turn from East Baker into Peachtree without signaling.

2:04 O'Clock: One woman driver turned right into Peachtree from East Baker without looking to her left and almost crashed into the car of another woman turning right into Peachtree from West Baker.

2:05 O'Clock: Man in a tan sedan ran a red light, his second offense at the intersection in 24 minutes.

2:07 O'Clock: Driver of a green coupe made a left turn from West Baker into Peachtree without signaling.

2:09 O'Clock: A woman pedestrian crossed Peachtree street against a red light.

2:10 O'Clock: Drivers of a green and a black sedan ran the amber light.

No policeman was seen on any corner of the intersection during the 30-minute period.

A motorcycle policeman approaching the traffic signal from the north at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon rushed a red light and made a left turn in the face of on-coming traffic, according to an eye-witness who notified The Constitution. The patrolman was accompanied by the signal by another policeman on a motorcycle, the witness stated.

'Voice of Safety' Cars Aid Police

In Public Education by Warnings

Newspapers, radios and public address systems are making the eyes and ears of the United States aware today of the greatest campaign for street and highway safety ever conducted.

The Constitution Safety Council is glad to have had a pioneering part in the unending drive to save lives by safety in this part of the country. One of the most novel methods employed in the safety drive of the country came to the notice of the Safety Council yesterday.

A new fleet of 55 "voice of safety" cars will operate in a number of northern and midwestern cities. Painted white, the automobiles are equipped with public address systems and will be operated in nearly every principal city of that section during the summer.

Education in Safety.

According to reports, a ride in one of the cars while on duty is a lesson in "stop, look and listen."

Put yourself in the driver's seat. Beside you sits a patrolman with a small microphone. If you were in Atlanta, you might turn the voice of "safety" car into a line of fast moving traffic, or more likely, into a hopeless tangle of vehicles.

A man is crossing the street in the middle of the block. A voice blares from the loud-speaker atop the machine.

"The safe place to cross the street," commands the officer's voice, "is at the crosswalk. That's what crosswalks are for."

Made to Look Foolish.

A crowd of shoppers turn to stare at the man. He sheepishly stops back to the curb. That is part of the psychological seasoning behind the use of the cars. People hate to look foolish in public.

You next approach an intersection. A few stragglers are crossing against the traffic light.

"Always look before crossing the street. If the light is red, wait until it turns green. Look at that woman out in the middle of the street. She is gambling her life against a few seconds of time."

The voice over the speaker is arresting, compelling and persuasive.

"Signal lights change every 30 seconds," it says. "It is much better to wait 30 seconds than to spend several months in the hospital."

An Object Lesson.

A mother and child try to make time by crossing against a red light.

"The child," admonishes the amplified voice, "learns to do things by imitating his parents. If parents walk against a red light, the child later may do so alone and endanger his life while walking to or from school."

"Voice of safety" cars have been used at ball parks, picnic grounds and playgrounds. At the latter, music is played from the loud-speaker until a group of children collects. Then the officer in charge delivers a safety lecture.

Factor in Campaign.

These cars may become an important factor in the campaign to trim down last year's huge total of 36,400 auto deaths.

This blatant type of safety "preaching" is no doubt effective in startling people into a realization of what they are doing wrong. But The Constitution Safety Council still believes that the majority of drivers and pedestrians are capable of sitting down in their plants of Remington Rand, Inc., situated in the east and midwest. They estimated 6,000 workers were involved; company officials placed the figure at 4,200.

In New York, 6,000 barbers in lower Manhattan were ordered on strike. Anthony Merlino, union vice president, said 23,000 barbers in the Bronx, Brooklyn and the Times Square and West Side sections of Manhattan already were out.

Field Work as Usual.

In east Arkansas, the southern tenant farmers union asserted 3,000 workers were on strike, but cotton planters insisted that cultivation of fields was under way as usual.

Six thousand loggers were out on strike in Oregon. One mill, employing 300 men, was shut down for lack of logs.

About 1,500 persons in different industries were on strike in the Philadelphia area.

In the Los Angeles area, 1,000 were involved in the celery field strike. Two hundred ship carpenters, caulkers and joiners walked out at San Pedro.

Labor spokesmen at Milwaukee estimated 2,500 were involved in strikes in Wisconsin.

He was a member of the Lanett First Methodist church and of the West Point Rotary Club.

own home, thinking out the question and coming to the realization that the practice of safety on the streets and highways of the country is as necessary to the assurance of life as food itself.

Invitation to All.

To such people the Safety Council extends an invitation to join the organization of 125,000 motorists who have pledged themselves to drive carefully.

Clip out the safe driving pledge found in this issue, sign it and mail it to the Safety Council, Atlanta Constitution, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Two safe driving stickers will send you for the front and rear windows of your car in return for your signed pledge.

the head with a bottle. I regret very much that it happened and can find but one explanation for the whole matter—that is that the congressman is very, very tired and nervous, got excited and didn't realize what he was doing."

Huddleston left early in the morning to carry his campaign into outlying areas. A Birmingham News reporter interviewed him before he left and quoted him as follows:

"Mr. Patrick came in, accompanied by two or three or four men and, walking up to me, thrust his finger into my face. His manner was beligerent, and it was apparent to me he had come there to raise a row. Although in a dining room, he did not take his hat off as he approached. In view of what I had said about his assertions on money, I naturally assumed he was there for trouble. I grabbed his extended hand with my left and struck him across the forehead with a bottle on the table. I am amazed that such a thing could happen. It seems incredible."

Patrick denied he pointed his finger in Huddleston's face. He said he "went right on talking," saying "this is a friendly call, Mr. Huddleston." At the suggestion of Long he left the table.

Patrick's straw hat was crushed but he suffered no serious injury. He said the hat bore most of the impact from the bottle.

In the first primary, Patrick, attorney and radio entertainer, based his campaign on a "no promise" platform, and in his broadcasts talked about almost everything, along with politics.

Huddleston obtained approximately 35 per cent of the total votes cast. Patrick was several hundred votes ahead of third place candidate, City Commissioner Lewer Robinson. Robinson endorsed Patrick's campaign immediately after the votes were counted.

Patrick has continued his work as radio entertainer during his campaign.

CONSTITUTION EMPLOYEE SWALLOWS BICHLORIDE

Suffering from the effects of having swallowed bichloride of mercury tablets, P. H. (Jack) Holmes, a member of the composing room force of The Constitution for the past 15 years, was taken to Grady hospital late yesterday afternoon.

His condition last night was said to be "fair." Holmes swallowed the tablets in his home at 490 Waldo street, S. E. Details of the case were not learned.

PRESSMAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Constitution Employee Killed; Shotgun Discovered Near Body; Inquest Today.

Marion Lawrence Thrash, 33, a pressman employed by The Constitution, was found dead at about 7:30 o'clock last night in a kneeling position by a bed in his home at 421 Boulevard, N. E.

A 16-gauge shotgun from which a single shot had been discharged was found by his feet. The charge had penetrated the left chest, the lead going upward.

Mrs. F. J. Gilbert, her son, Earl Gilbert, 15, both of 421 Boulevard, N. E., were in an adjoining room and discovered Thrash after they heard the shot.

They called police, and Radio Patrolmen F. A. Turner and T. B. Clark had the body taken to the mortuary of Henry M. Blanchard. An inquest will be held this morning by Coroner Paul B. Doneho.

Thrash had been employed by The Constitution for about two years.

action against snipers at Jaffa, but no casualties were reported.

Arson, destruction of crops and citrus groves in Jewish districts and cutting of telephone wires continued over the country.

In the neighborhood of Tel-Aviv, a pitched battle raged well into the night. Snipers, concealed in orange groves, fired on and bombed police, who sent back heavy fusillades.

(The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported bombs were thrown in Jaffa, where Arabs and police exchanged shots, and in other towns. There were fires at Rehoboth and Beth Veigan, both Jewish settlements, and on the Jaffa-Tel Aviv border.

27th Victim Buried.

(The agency reported Jacob Basili, buried last night, was the twenty-seventh Jewish victim since April 19, when Arabs began a concerted movement aimed at stopping Jewish immigration and land purchases.

(Curfew was lifted partially in Jerusalem Jewish quarters tonight to permit Jews to attend Shabbath services in synagogues. Jews were not permitted to pray at the wailing wall, where there were sanguinary incidents in 1929.

In the Jezreel valley engagement, Arab snipers hidden on a hillside fired into the Jewish village of Beth Alpha.

Transjordan troops returned the fire and routed the snipers. British officers were in command of the troops.

Earlier in two brushes near Nazareth, British soldiers repelled 200 Arabs who fled with an undetermined number of wounded, and made a strategic retreat before frontal and flank attacks by some 250 rifle-armed Moslems. The latter troops, posted at the foot of Mount Tabot, ran out of ammunition.

backfires were centered in an area 15 miles long and six miles wide, between Tuckerton and Warren Grove.

Three of the five dead were Civilian Conservation Corps workers attached to the Bass River camp. They were identified as John T. LaSalle, 20, and Edward F. Sullivan, 20, both of New Brunswick, and Stanley Carr, 22, of Waretown.

The other victims were Kingsley White, 38, of Whitesville, a civilian volunteer, and Ira Morey, of West Creek, a state fire ranger.

Eight other fighters, six of them CCC men, were confined at the Camp Dix hospital for treatment of burns. Officials, who had first reported two fire wardens and more than a dozen CCC workers missing, announced this afternoon all were accounted for.

The men who were burned to death and injured in the present fire were members of a brigade which penetrated into an area known as Stafford Forge, midway between Tuckerton and Barnegat, last night.

FIRE IN SAN FRANCISCO DOES $300,000 DAMAGE

1,000,000 Feet of Lumber Burns as Oil-Fed Flames Sweep Waterfront.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—(P)—An oil-fired fire swept the waterfront near the railroad terminal here today, causing damage estimated at more than $300,000.

More than 1,000,000 feet of valuable lumber was destroyed at three yards, and loading docks and piers were burned.

The flames darted over oil-covered water and set fire to creosoted pilings of a railway trestle, then spread rapidly to lumber yards between Fourth and Seventh and Chennel streets.

An unidentified man, believed to have been Pete Anderson, relief watchman at the Christensen Lumber Company, dropped dead while watching the spectacular blaze.

Fifty pieces of fire fighting apparatus were called out and thousands of commuters from peninsula cities fought their way through clouds of white acrid smoke.

Fire Chief Charles Brennan said he believed the fire was started when oil, carried by a sewer, became ignited. The oil fed the flames, turning the channel into a blazing stream, adding to the difficulties of the scene of firemen.

Chief Brennan estimated the damage at $300,000.

Fulton Courts Revise Procedure In Attempt To Speed Business

Radical Changes, Beginning With July Term, Have Been Advocated by Local Bar Association and Approved by Six Judges.

Radical changes in court procedure in an effort to speed up business in the six Fulton superior court divisions are to be put into effect July 1, Judge John D. Humphries, senior judge, announced yesterday.

Advocated by the Atlanta Bar Association and approved by the superior court judges, many new rules and regulations and methods of procedure are to be inaugurated.

Beginning next court term, civil and criminal divisions will be permanently located in various court rooms and the judges will follow the court, instead of the court following the judge. Re-arrangement of offices and creation of assembly rooms for jurors and witnesses in civil and criminal cases were included in the new set of court rules made ready for the printers yesterday.

Two Criminal Courts. Henceforth all criminal business will be disposed of in the two courtrooms on the sixth floor of the courthouse, and four civil divisions will occupy courtrooms on the second, fourth and eighth floors. An emergency criminal courtroom will be maintained on the ninth floor.

Judge Humphries and Judge E. E. Pomeroy will have their new offices in the southeast corner of the fourth floor, hitherto occupied by court reporters. Judge E. D. Thomas and Judge Virlyn B. Moore will be located on the northeast corner of the same floor. Court reporters and stenographers who formerly had offices in these sections are to be given other locations.

Deputy Clerks W. H. Spratlin and C. E. Hartsfield and Mrs. Ruth Martin, whose offices and records rooms are now on the second floor, are to be moved to the fourth floor also.

Judge G. H. Howard and Judge who will make up trial lists monthly and weekly.

To speed up criminal trials, the calendar clerk of the solicitor general's office will make a list of witnesses needed in trials for the next week and a bailiff will serve the subpoenas. If service is perfected on enough witnesses for the state to make out its case, then the trial will be put on the next week's calendar. However, if important witnesses are not subpoenaed, then the case will go over until the following week.

Endeavoring to eliminate delays of all kinds, the bar association and the judges have created a number of other new rules of a minor nature which will tend to facilitate speed.

CONVICTION UPHELD
IN POISON SLAYING

Mrs. Creighton, Appellate Found Guilty in Killing in New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 26.—(P)—The court of appeals today upheld joint conviction of Edward R. Applegate, former Nassau county American Legion officer, and Mrs. Frances Q. Creighton, both of whom had been condemned to die for the poison murder of Applegate's wife, Ada.

Mrs. Creighton and Applegate were convicted in connection with the death of Mrs. Applegate last September 27 in the home at Baldwin, Long Island, which both families occupied. The state charged the defendants fed poison to Mrs. Applegate.

The court's decision was unanimous, all jurors concurring in the opinion written by Chief Judge Frederick A. Crane.

The state charged at the trial that the pair conspired to murder Mrs. Applegate so that Applegate and Mrs. Creighton's daughter, Ruth, 16, could marry.

Testimony indicated that Applegate had had improper relations with both Mrs. Creighton and the daughter.

FOREIGN NEWSMEN RECEIVED BY POPE

"Press Rules the World," Pontiff Declares in 20-Minute Address.

VATICAN CITY, May 26.—(P)—Pope Pius told more than 80 foreign newspapermen today that "the press rules the world."

The pontiff made this declaration in the course of a 20-minute address to newspapermen. A world exposition of the Catholic press is now under way in Vatican City.

"It is no exaggeration to say the press rules the world because thought governs the world and the press is the transmitter and registrar of thought," he said.

The pontiff gave his own definition of newspapermen—"intelligent loud-speakers."

He told the correspondents all were welcome in the Vatican whether "believers, unrepentant or non-believers" because the city is "the house of the common father."

The Holy Father, who will be 79 in five days, plainly showed the effects of advanced age. He walked very slowly as he passed before each correspondent several times in the course of the address and paused as if to catch his breath.

After the talk he gave the apostolic blessing to the group.

VICE TRIAL POSTPONED AS WITNESS COLLAPSES

NEW YORK, May 26.—(P)—The collapse of pretty Nancy Presser on the witness stand tonight forced sudden postponement of the vice ring trial during which Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey hopes to prove Charles "Lucky" Luciano overlord of vice in New York city.

One of the chief witnesses for the prosecution, the former artist's model, an admitted prostitute, sagged in the witness stand and gave only faltering answers to defense counsel as her second day in court ended.

A policeman said she was too ill to continue testifying. Trial was postponed until tomorrow.

TOMORROW'S CHILD

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

High said, "I don't suppose you could be more specific about that block-headed man. . . ."

Robert met Val at the train and almost from the moment of their meeting Val sensed a change in him. As they rode homeward it came to her that there was less conscious gesture and speech about him, less of the starch of self-esteem, less effort to impress.

Robert said nothing about Aunt Mahala. At last Val said, "I was out having lunch with a friend when your wire came, Robert. They didn't get hold of me until after 2 o'clock. Did Kate wire you I was coming on this train?"

"Kate?" He shook his head. "No, it was your playwright friend, I think. He telephoned. Malcolm—is that the playwright?"

"Yes. He seemed quite a decent sort the night I saw him at your cousin's apartment."

"He's a fine person," Val said simply. And then she asked, "Did Aunt Mahala say she wanted me to come home?"

"She's been unconscious since about 11 o'clock this morning, Val. She had gone out to walk in the yard and Mrs. Warren happened to look out the kitchen window and see her lying on the ground near the carriage house. There was a little silence, then Robert said, 'Father insisted I shouldn't send for you unless Aunt Mahala asked me to, but—' He paused, but his eyes remained fixed on the street ahead. 'I knew you'd want to come.'"

"Looking up at him, Val thought, 'It's hard to imagine him opposing his father, but perhaps that explains the change in him.'"

Perhaps he divined her thoughts. As the car rolled to a stop in front of the house, he said, "You don't want to talk about this now, Val, and I don't want you to, but—well, when there's time, I'd like to try to explain some things to you. Perhaps it's too late for explanations, but I still want you to know that what I've done hasn't always been done because I wanted to do it. I grew up under Father's thumb and I got in the habit of letting him make my decisions. It took that little trip to New York to make me realize it."

"Understanding was in Val's dark eyes, but there seemed to be nothing to say. As Robert opened the door and gave her his hand, he said, 'I think I'd better not go in.' He opened the door of the house and set her bag down in the hall. 'If you need me for anything at all, you'll call me, of course?'"

"And thanks, Robert."

Mrs. Warren had not heard them at the door. When Val appeared in the kitchen doorway, the housekeeper took her hands out of the big yellow bowl and began to wipe them on her white apron. Then she burst into tears, threw her arms about Val and clung to her until at last Val said, "It's good to see you, Warren. I've missed you more than you can know."

And a little later when the housekeeper was quiet, "Tell me about Aunt Mahala. . . . has she been conscious at all?"

"Just a few minutes, late this afternoon. . . ."

It was the last of January and still Val stayed on in Aunt Mahala's house, and save that Aunt Mahala was no longer there life went on as it had in the old days before she went to New York. Kate and Hugh had come to the funeral and Kate had written regularly since, never neglecting to remind her that her job in the magazine office would be waiting for her whenever she decided to return to New York.

Twice a week she had written Cran long letters about nothing in particular, but she was finding it increasingly difficult to think of something to say. In her last letter she had, of necessity, devoted two full pages to detailing Robert's countless little services during the interval since Aunt Mahala's passing.

Robert came almost daily and as often as she showed any disposition to get out, he brought the car and took her to ride. The winter had settled down in earnest now, however, and riding in an unheated car was not very pleasant, only the day before Val had suggested that it might be wise to defer their excursions into the country until the weather and scenery were more inviting.

The disposal of Aunt Mahala's estate was definitely settled now, and as Val would have it, though Robert's father had tried to persuade her to contest the will on the ground that both Miss Jenkins, the nurse and Mrs. Warren had heard her aunt say she wanted the will changed back to its original form. Robert was present at this discussion and he quite definitely re-established himself in Val's esteem

when, wearied by his father's insistence, he suddenly declared, "After all, father, it's a matter for Val to decide. The money's being thrown away. It's going to needy charities and she's perfectly content that it should."

This had brought a heavy frown to the elder Greeley's damp brow, but apparently he had been encountering this sort of thing rather frequently of late and he had dropped the matter.

Val herself did not know why she stared on in New Manchester, though she suspected she was unconsciously trying to escape from a situation from which there was no honorable escape—trying to escape what was as inevitable as the fact that depleted funds and a routine legal notice would presently make it imperative that she leave this house forever.

And now as January drew to a close, Robert cautiously began to grope his way back into her life, not merely as a friend in need as he had been this past month but as a young man who realized he had fumbled his big chance and yet still held to the faint hope that he could regain what he had so foolishly thrown away.

But Val had no intention of letting her life become any more muddled than it was already and when she could no longer evade his subtle references to their old relationship, she told him one evening, "I like you, Robert. You've changed a great deal since the old days, and I like the new you tremendously. But you can't back-track in this life. I don't mean to sound profound, but I've discovered that in my mean little experience and it's one of the things we've got to accept. You come to a certain point and you can't go back. You can't go back, you can't go back, if you try, you only succeed in making yourself as soon as I heard."

"When did you come, Valentine?" "About eight, I think," Val said, smiling down at her. "I came as soon as I heard."

The bright eyes blinked, remained shut for a moment, then fixed on Val's face once more. "We all do things we wish we hadn't, Valentine. . . . Sometimes it's better to be hurt and keep your mouth shut than it is to lose the only thing you live a rap about. . . . You haven't had a hard time in New York?"

Val shook her head. "I've been working hard, but it's not very hard." And then because of the pain in her throat she tried to say what she knew in a moment she wouldn't be able to say: "I'm sorry, Aunt Mahala—I suddenly choked up and couldn't go on."

"No, you're not," Aunt Mahala said bluntly. "And I'm not. We're like that, it's in our blood, Valentine. We do what we think we ought to do and we're never sorry. But we make mistakes." She was talking with great effort now. "I never intended you shouldn't have what's mine, Valentine. I want you to have Mr. Greeley come over tomorrow and see what he has to say. Suddenly her eyes closed and she didn't move again."

Val said quickly, "No, I don't want you to do that, Aunt Mahala. It's better the way it is."

But Aunt Mahala's eyes were closed and the nurse said quietly, "She can't hear you now, Miss Clarke. I mean—I'll call you if she asks for you again."

Mahala Jessup-Doran breathed her last a few minutes after six the next morning.

MARBLES

ARE NOT MADE OF MARBLE

Just why marbles should be called that, when they are never made of marble, is another of those enigmas of our common language. They have never had anything whatever to do with marble, so we shall have to look elsewhere for the origin of the name. Evans's glossary explains the error by saying that these little round balls were once made in England from marl, and that the name has been derived from this. Palmer believes that the name originated from the French word marbles. Until the argument is settled, small boys will continue to call them "marbles"—and have just as much fun.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

PRINCE BISMARCK.

"A man of blood and iron!" That is what many persons called him. When he first held high public office, he said, "The great questions of the time will have to be decided . . . by blood and iron."

"I reckon they feel honest, but I ain't got much faith in folks that earn $150 a month and buy $200 worth on credit."

JUST NUTS

DON'T KILL YOUR WIFE WITH WORK—LET OUR LAUNDRY DO IT—

Bismarck obtaining the "last signature" of King Wilhelm I.

His full name was Otto Eduard Leopold, Prince von Bismarck-Schoenhausen, but he is known in history as Prince Bismarck or just "Bismarck." He was not a member of the royal family, but was given the rank of prince because of the work he did.

King William of Prussia, supposed that Bismarck was a great helper of the country, but he probably did more harm than good. His deeds had something to do with bringing on the World War, which led to the deaths of millions of Germans—from bullets and from starvation.

The "man of blood and iron" died 16 years before the World War started, but his deeds lived after him. We shall see in a moment how he made Frenchmen feel bitter toward Germany.

As a college student Bismarck was one of those who fought duels. They were not duels to the death. The object of the students was to mark those with whom they fought, but not to cause death. A sword gash on the face or a blow on the arm was enough to stop a duel. Afterward there was likely to be a scar.

The brutal "sport" was popular in Germany before the World War. The war, for about 20 years, it went out of practice. Press reports tell us that it has come back to some extent during the past few years. Bismarck had more levels than the others—28 students were victims of his skill.

At the age of 47, Bismarck came to high office—he was named "minister-president" of Prussia, about the same as being prime minister. In the eight years which followed, Prussia fought three wars. First there was a war against Denmark, then against Austria, then against France. The Prussians won each time.

The Franco-Prussian war seems to have been as much the fault of Napoleon III, ruler of France, as it was of Bismarck. The peace terms of the Prussian victory were harsh—they took from France the province of Alsace and Lorraine, and also an indemnity of five billion francs.

The wars led to a closer union of the German states, with William of Prussia as emperor, or kaiser. Bismarck was called the "iron chancellor," the man who had formed (or forced) the German states into a close-knit union.

At the time Alsace and Lorraine were more German than French, but when Prussia took the provinces they were more French than German. Loss of land and the heavy war payment made many Frenchmen bitter toward Germany—that bitterness helped bring war in 1914.

Lipscomb Hits Two Homers as Crackers Beat Chicks, 9 to 4

I have been reading about Edward VIII, First of the House of Windsor, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

He is flying again. And playing golf again.

It was the latter announcement which was of special interest.

Edward VIII rules one-fourth of the world's habitable land surface. This includes some of the arctic regions of shimmering polar ice.

He rules approximately 500,000,000 people, about 15,000,000 more than one-fourth of the total inhabitants of the world, occupying about 13,226,749 square miles.

His golf handicap is 11.

There is something about that. In a world which at times appears harsh and cold and full of woe, one encounters little items such as this one which are a great comfort.

Edward VIII rules 500,000,000 people and one-fourth of the world.

But he still has the same trouble with his chip shots that Joe Blow does when he rushes away from his clerk's job and hies himself to the municipal course, puts down his fee and goes out to play.

And the man who rules one-fourth of the world's habitable lands can't make those three-foot putts drop any better than can Dr. Joe Jones, who tries to sneak in a round or so of golf between calls from frantic husbands and wives who are worried about their coming blessed events.

And the Emperor of India often shanks them into the rough. The blubber-eating Eskimos pay him tribute.

But he can't blast out of a sand trap.

His handicap is 11 strokes.

There must be thousands in Atlanta with a handicap of 10. Or less.

Which gives them an edge on his Majesty, the King.

"Golf is a humbling game."

"OLD HICKORY" AND HOSSES.

From the country of Unicorn and the state of Tenn-O-See comes a new race horse.

It is one of the collection of stories from the saga of Andrew Jackson, Old Hickory. He was a great race horse man, was Old Hickory. And a great war hero. And he became president.

I dislike to think what would happen to the politician of today were it to become known he was an owner of race horses, that he had ridden as a jockey and that he actually had wagered all his money, his clothes and his personal property on one race—and lost.

But Old Hickory didn't care. He fought duels and raced horses and fought chickens and drank liquor and left a right nice name. It was a great era—his era.

The Press Chronicle, of Johnson City, has turned out a special edition which includes the story of the race at Greasy Cove track, built by Colonel Robert Love, a name still renowned in Tenn-O-See.

Old Hickory's weakness was horses. A fleet horse was his

BOSWELL MADE

U. S. FAVORITE

IN EPSOM RACE

Woodward's Horse Seeks

Fifth American Win in English Derby.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May

26.—(AP)—Carrying a tidy fortune in

United States dollars on his nose,

William Woodward's Boswell to-now will seek to become the fifth

American-owned thoroughbred in history to win England's classic race for 3-year-olds, the Derby.

Arrayed against the brown son of

Bosworth-Flying Gal II will be 21 of the finest colts in the kingdom, including Lord Astor's Pay Up, winner of the two thousand guineas and the favorite at 6 to 1; the Aga

Khan's Taj Akbar, second choice at

100 to 1; and Sir Alfred Butt's

Noble King, quoted at 15 to 2.

The rush of support—in terms of hard cash—for Woodward's horse has been the outstanding feature of the pre-Derby developments the last few days. A 25-to-1 shot not long ago,

Boswell has been backed so heavily that bookmakers refused to give better than 8 to 1 against his chances today.

A victory for Boswell tomorrow would mark the first triumph for an American-owned Derby colt since 1914

when H. B. Durfee won with Durbar

II. Before that Richard Croker's Or-by in 1907, William C. Whitney's Volodovsky in 1901 and Pierre Lorillard's

Irish in 1881, hung up

American triumphs.

Thomas' Personality Chart

Save Cracker Autographs

And Learn About Players

By Jack Troy.

Cracker players are learning things about themselves they have often suspected but were reluctant to mention in the series of personality charts devised by Elaine, The Constitution's famous handwriting expert.

The third of the series is presented today. Luther (Bud) Thomas, the old Virginian, is the subject. Bud is a farmer in off seasons.

Uncle Bud, a favorite with the fans, is perhaps the most effective

Cracker pitcher. Big league scouts are on his trail. But he will not be sold to anybody for immediate delivery. Chances are he will be with a major league club next year.

Among the things Elaine detects from the autograph of Thomas is that "he has a splendid sense of values, with caution and persistence in carrying out his purposes."

Daily charts of other players will follow. They should be valuable material for one's scrapbook, for each sketch includes an autograph.

Thomas' personality chart follows:

Red Sox Turn Back Yankees, 5-4; Caras Beat Pirates Twice

BOSTON JUMPS TO HALF GAME OF FIRST PLACE

Buddy Lewis and Cecil Travis Lead Senators to 8-2 Win.

BOSTON, May 26.—(AP)—The gold-plated Red Sox, pointing their big guns at the New York Yankees and the American league lead at one and the same time, nosed out the loop pace-makers, 5 to 4, today.

The victory, aided by Jimmy Fox's 12th homer of the season and Wes Ferrell's tight pitching up to the ninth, put the Sox only half a game back of the New Yorkers in the league standings.

A Yankee rally in the closing inning left just one run short as Dusty Cook took Lou Gehrig's high fly to end a rally which had netted two runs on a single to right by Joe DiMaggio, the sensational New York rookie.

Bill Dickey, the Yanks' veteran catcher, was injured in the fourth when he collided with Eric McNair in a close play at home, and had to be taken to a hospital for an X-ray examination.

With Buddy Lewis and Cecil Travis leading a 13-hit barrage, the Washington Senators defeated the Athletics, 8 to 2, in the first of a three-game series.

It was the fifth straight win of the season for Washington over the Athletics with no losses.

Lewis got a single, a double and a triple out of five times at bat while Travis got a triple and two singles in five trips.

The St. Louis Browns hit Pitcher Thornton Lee for four runs in the ninth inning and defeated the Cleveland Indians today, 8 to 5. Jim Bottomley, Brown first baseman, broke a 3-to-3 deadlock in the eighth inning with a home run.

Detroit's Tigers divided a double bill with the Chicago White Sox, pounding out a 12 to 9 victory in the first game, only to be checked by Meritt (Sugar) Cain, 9 to 2, in the second.

The Tigers hit Whitehead and Brown hard in the opener, collecting 16 hits including home runs by Goose Goslin and Gerald Walker. Tony Piet and Luke Appling hit circuit blows for the Sox.

There will be 52 rounds of fast and furious boxing Friday night at the Key arena. And the ladies will be admitted free.

Promoter Cleve Roby is bringing boxing back to Atlanta on what he hopes to be a big-time scale before the season is over. He plans to bring leading fighters here.

Harold Glynn of Atlanta, weight 165, and Panama Mickey O'Brien, Athens, weight 160, will battle in the feature eight-rounder.

The semi-finals of eight rounds, brings together Curtis Smith, of Detroit, and T. Hubert, of Atlanta, light-heavyweights.

Then, too, there are four supporting matches of eight rounds each. They include Sluggo White, Athens, vs. Louis Craig, Macon; Chester Conklin, East Point, vs. Harold Moore, Griffin; Blodworth, of Jacksonville, vs. Powell, of Atlanta, and Johnnie Hue vs. Perry Clark, Macon.

Indians Outfielder Can Play Again Soon
BOSTON, May 26.—(AP)—Outfielder Bruce Campbell, of the Cleveland Indians, stricken a month ago with a third attack of spinal meningitis, will be discharged from St. Patrick's hospital tomorrow or Thursday and will be able to play again "by July 1—if not sooner"—his physician said tonight.

Kathryn Hemphill Sets New Record
MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 26.—(AP)—Miss Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., set a new women's record for the Memphis Country Club course today in defeating Miss Deane Van Landingham, of Charlotte, N. C., 7 and 6, in the first round of the championship flight in the Marguerite Gaut invitation tournament.

She shot a 35 on the first nine to equal men's par, and came in in 40, for a total of 75. Women's par for the course is 78.

Mrs. Dave Gaut, in whose honor the tournament is held, defeated Mrs. H. R. Alexander, of Nashville, Tenn., Keith Spurrier, Memphis, 7 and 6.

Mrs. Louis Kaye, of Louisville, won, 6 and 5, over Mrs. Connolly Henson, Arkansas state champion.

WIFEORD GIVES BUCS TWO HITS; DIZZY GETS 7TH

Giants Defeat Dodgers; Cubs Beat Reds; Phils Best Bees.

ST. LOUIS, May 26.—(AP)—Jim Winfield allowed only two hits as the Cardinals swept a double-header from the Pirates by taking the second game today, 6 to 2. Dizzy Dean won his seventh victory of the season as St. Louis won the first game by the same score.

Homers by Leo Jorgens and Johnny Moore, and Orville Norris' tight pitching in the pinches gave the Phillies a 7-1-2 win over the Boston Bees in the series' opener.

Harry Gumbert pitched hitless ball for four innings, and held the Brooklyn Dodgers in check throughout today as the Giants downed their arch rivals, 7 to 3.

Headman, who has pitched three in the third featured a three-run attack in that inning. The four-bagger, scoring Sam Leslie in front of Leiber, accounted for two of the runs in that inning.

The Cubs bounced back into the first division today as they came home from three days' road trip, backed little Roy Henshaw's steady pitching with a seven-run spurge against Lee Stine in the third inning, and defeated Cincinnati, 10 to 4.

Crackers His Jinx For 11 Years as Fan

O. T. Smith Has Never Seen Atlanta Club Win a Game.

By Jack Troy.

All the doubting Thomases—that doesn't include you, Bud—will please retire from the room. The young professor has a most amazing story to unfold.

There is a gentleman in The Constitution composing room who has been attending Cracker games off and on for 11 years and has never seen the home nine win.

And O. T. Smith has never seen the Crackers win.

Smith makes the Cracker follower in the sports department squirm everytime he announces he is going to attend a game.

Monday, for instance, he came around for a pass.

"I've tried everything," he said, "I have paid my way and don't tell anybody—I may even have slipped in back in my younger days—but I have never seen the Crackers win. I thought I'd like to try a pass again."

Well, he got the pass—and also a little beat on the side. The boys were sure the Crackers would beat those Chicks.

Smith was around grinning after the game. He had seen Alex Hooks hit a homer with Johnny Hill on in the first inning. He had seen the game go along to the sixth without signs.

Richards hit two singles in addition to his homer. He fanned the first time up. So he had three safeties in four trips.

On the first homer, a smash to left, Willie Duke scarcely saw the ball as it zipped past him toward the signs.

Richards hit a triple and a single and Dave Harris had two singles. These four accounted for the majority of the 14 hits.

The Chicks scored all their runs in two innings. They got two across in the third and the final two in the eighth.

The hitting star for Memphis was Joe Grace, injured right fielder. Grace has trouble running because of an ailment, but he got four more hits in four trips last night. He got four of five the day before. He ran his string up to eight straight for two days. Haley went in to run for Grace in the eighth and finished out the game.

The victory gave the Crackers a lead of seven and one-half games again, Nashville losing to Little Rock. The teams will meet in the four-game series today. Bill Schmidt will seek his ninth straight victory. Manager Hofmann is expected to pitch Clem Dreisweiser.

GREAT START
The Crackers got off to a great start in the first inning. After Hamel went down swinging, Hill tripped to left. Then Hooks and Harris drew successive walks. And with the stage set, Lipscomb banged a home run inside the park. The drive was too hot for Duke, in left, to get. And, despite a fine relay, Lipscomb connected a home run to a homer by virtue of a great slide.

The Chicks came up swinging in the third and got two of the runs back. Frazier smashed a single off Thomas' glove and Marquardt singled to right. Cotelle went down swinging. Then Grace slashed a double to left, scoring Frazier. Harris made a wild return throw to second, allowing Marquardt to score. Duke died out and Chatham made a great stop and throw to retire Reese and the side.

The Crackers virtually ripped the cover off the baseball in the third. There were two home runs and two singles accounting for four runs.

After Hooks popped to Luther, Harris beat out an infield hit to third. Lipscomb came up and hit his second successive home run inside the park. This time he hit a smash to deep left center. Brown singled and Paul Richards hit a home run in the out-field stands. Chatham tied to center and Thomas rolled out, Luther to Farrell to end the slugfest.

Frazier left the game in the sixth when he waved Hamel and Hill doubled to center. Manager Hofmann sent Cauble in to pitch. Hamel accented the ninth run on Hooks' infield out. Harris was safe on Luther's throw to first. Bill Schmidt will seek to score, Farrell making a fine throw to the plate. Harris was out trying to steal, retiring the side.

The Chicks whittled the impressive Cracker lead by two runs in the eighth. Grace got his fourth hit, a single, and Duke also singled, sending Grace to third. Cauble went in to run for Grace. Cauble scored on Reese's infield out, and Duke tallied after the catch of Farrell's fly in deep left. Luther singled, but Powell ended the inning by grounding out, Hill to Hooks.

Warren Nine Beats Thomaston, 5 to 4
The Warren Company defeated the Goodrich Silvertown team from Thomaston last night on the Warren athletic field, 5 to 4.

Eldson, pitching for Warren Company, pitched good ball until he got into trouble in the fifth and sixth innings and was relieved by Bob Hasty, who held the visitors well in check for the remainder of the game.

Memphis breaking through. And then they got to Williams, scored two and tied it up.

And he had seen the big blow-out in the seventh, with Memphis scoring eight runs. He had seen Memphis score another in the eighth and a fluke homer in the ninth.

"I don't want any one to get the wrong impression," Smith said, "I am not the Crackers' jinx. The Crackers are my jinx. For, believe me, after 11 years as a fan I would like to see them win a game!"

Smith was forced by circumstances to miss the Crackers when they were on a winning streak. Each time he got to attend a game, the streak either was ended or stopped abruptly on his day to be at the park.

Maybe President Earl Mann ought to pay O. T. Smith to stay away from the games—for the sake of winning.

Dickey Hurt In Collision At Plate

BOSTON, May 26.—(AP)—The league-leading New York Yankees lost the services of their reliable, veteran catcher, Bill Dickey, "for at least 10 days" and possibly longer today.

Carried unconscious from the field at Fenway park after a collision with Eric McNair, Red Sox shortstop, near home plate in the fourth inning of a game with the Red Sox, Dickey was taken to near-by St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Late tonight an X-ray picture, Dr. Edward O'Brien, Red Sox physician, said, showed that Dickey was suffering from "an injury to his left kidney."

McNair and the Yankees' catcher collided as Dickey took Ben Chapman's perfect throw-in from center field, to tag McNair out when he attempted to score.

Thank You, Major Clark Howell, Jr.

ROOSEVELT PLANNING HISTORICAL DISCUSSION

President Outlines Part of Program for His Western Trip.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told newspapermen today he would talk history—not politics—on his tour of Arkansas, Texas, Indiana and perhaps Kentucky next month.

The executive related his plans for the western jaunt, beginning June 8, shortly after returning from a three-day visit to the Hyde Park, N. Y., beside his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, who suffered a hip-fracture in a fall two weeks ago. Hardly had he entered the White House when senate democratic leaders sought and were granted a conference tonight to talk over latest troubles in framing the tax bill.

At a press conference later in the day, Mr. Roosevelt was prompted to talk about his coming trip by a reporter who asked if it were true that he intended to steal the show away from the republican national convention by making speeches just as that convocation got under way.

Smiles at Query. The President smiled at the query, replied in the negative and then explained the western trip was planned months ago. He said he wanted it to fit in with latest plans to do some sailing off Campobello Island, New Brunswick, where the Roosevelts maintain a summer home.

He repeated he would leave here June 8 unless something happens necessitating his presence in Washington and would make his first speech in Little Rock June 10. This, he said, will touch on the early history of Arkansas, since the occasion is the 100th anniversary of the state's entry into the Union.

The President said he would visit the San Jacinto battlefield at Houston, Texas, and lay a wreath at the Alamo at San Antonio, June 11, and speak at Dallas the next day on history. The Lone Star State will be celebrating the centennial of her independence from Mexico.

Clark Memorial. At Vincennes, the President will dedicate a memorial to George Rogers Clark, northwest explorer.

The speech in Kentucky will be at one of three or four historic spots, he said, but it has not been decided whether to visit that state on the way to Texas or on the return journey. Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, who visited the White House in the day but did not see the President, told newspapermen that Hod-

Thugs Slug Samaritan After Begging for Gas

Slugged on the head with a black jack and robbed of $15 in cash and five gallons of gasoline by two men, W. R. Barrentine, operator of a gasoline station at McDonough and College avenues, Decatur, was taken to Emory University hospital early yesterday morning.

His condition last night was described as "fair." Barrentine told detectives the men entered the station in a broken-down automobile. They asked for gasoline, saying they had no money but that they would leave a spare tire as a deposit.

After Barrentine gave them the fuel, he was attacked and robbed.

genville, Ky., where the Lincoln farm and log cabin are located, was being given prime consideration among places as the site in that state for Mr. Roosevelt's speech. In all probability the stop would be made around June 14, he added.

Commenting on reports which have described his trip as political in character, the President good naturedly warned the press not to go too far on that limb.

As for politics the President said he still lacked information on the democratic gubernatorial situation in New York state, but expressed for the third time a hope that Governor Herbert H. Lehman, his successor at Albany, would reconsider his decision not to seek a third term. Lehman has made a very good governor, he said.

PERMIT REVOCATION OF WINERIES IS URGED

Linder Cites State, Federal Laws in Plea for Washington Action.

In a letter forwarded yesterday to the Federal Alcohol Commission in Washington, D. C., Tom Linder, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, charged that all fortified wines now being sold in Georgia are in direct violation of the state beverage control laws and that the permits of such companies should be cancelled by the federal government.

Linder pointed out that the Georgia beer and wine law specifically limits the alcoholic content of wines sold in the state to the percentage reached by natural fermentation.

In a list compiled and attached to the letter he supplies information on the alcoholic content of wines sold in this state from 12 producing firms, which, he claims, are in violation of the state law. Listing the alcoholic percentages, Linder charges that the wines are necessarily fortified to reach the percentages given.

The commissioner of agriculture points out that the federal permit issued to wineries requires them to observe the laws of the state into which their products are shipped as well as to abide by the federal regulations.

He contends that the permits of these firms are subject to cancellation for violation of the Georgia law. Linder in his letter further points out that enormous quantities of suitable materials for producing wine are going to waste in the state because the home manufactured wine, complying with the state laws for alcoholic limit could not be sold in competition with the fortified product.

"The action of persons purporting to act under the federal wine permits in flooding Georgia with concoctions under the name of wine that are illegal to be sold in Georgia has the effect of using the federal permit to flout the state laws," the commissioner charges.

EARLY DECISION SEEN IN UTILITY LITIGATION

Former Secretary of War Baker Presents Case for Power Companies.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, of the District of Columbia supreme court, today promised an early decision in an injunction suit brought by four utility companies to challenge the constitutionality of the Public Works Administration's $200,000,000 power program.

Baker took the case under advisement after Newton D. Baker, attorney for the power companies, had condemned the 1935 emergency relief act as an illegal delegation of congressional authority, "which gives the President $4,800,000,000 to spend in any way he pleases."

Baker asked the court to forbid the allotment of PWA funds for the construction of 10 municipal power projects, scattered through Alabama, Texas, Oklahoma and Iowa.

Competition of the proposed electric plants, Baker claimed, would destroy $3,619,000 worth of utility company investments.

Baker drew on his own experience as secretary of war under President Wilson to demonstrate that congress had never before turned lump sum appropriations over to the executive.

Even in war time, congress guarded its power over the purse, and insisted on telling us just how many horse blankets or how many pistols we should buy," he said.

He told the court that if anyone had told him to give the President $4,800,000,000 and tell him to use it as he pleased, I would have thought one of us insane.

Earlier, Jerome Frank, PWA counsel, defended the municipal power projects as a legitimate means of breaking up private utility monopolies.

"These firms have no right to complain of competition by the government or by anyone else," he said. "The courts have no duty to protect a monopoly by any person or any corporation."

GEORGE-DEEN BILL FOR EDUCATION FORCES

Measure Assures Twelve Million for Vocational Students.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The George-Deen bill providing for the further development of vocational education in Georgia and other states and territories of the Union passed the house late today without a record vote.

Representative Braswell Deen, of Alma, author of the house bill, told his colleagues immediately after a special rule had been voted by the lower chamber to consider the bill, that he was willing to substitute the George measure, which had already passed the senate, for his bill, in order to save time and insure enactment of the legislation before final adjournment of the congress, probably late next week.

By backing the George bill $12,000,000 will be provided for vocational education instead of $6,000,000, the figure contained in the Deen measure. Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, author of the George-Deen bill, expressed pleasure that the house accepted his bill because he said if a separate house bill had been passed by the lower chamber, it would have been necessary to throw the whole matter into conference between the two houses, and failure of any legislation along this line might have been the result.

The measure adopted today is a substitute for what is known as the George-Elzey law passed in 1934, from which Georgia received during the fiscal years ending June 30, 1935, $37,399,743. While the George-Elzey bill provided but $3,000,000 for the country, the bill passed today provides $12,000,000, which means Georgia will receive approximately four times $3,000,000, during the coming fiscal year.

BREAK O' DAY

idol. And in the years around 1788 his weakness was "at its weakest."

When the day came for the race Jackson's jockey was ill and so Jackson rode himself.

Jackson lost. So enraged was he, according to the writer of the day—that he called Colonel Love, who was an extensive landowner, a "land pirate."

And Colonel Love called Andrew Jackson "a long, gangling, sorrel-topped soap stick."

Friends, the story says, intervened and led them in different directions.

It was Colonel Love who later organized his state and gave Jackson the largest vote he received in any state in the race for the presidency.

Old Hickory raced horses near his home, The Hermitage, out from Nashville. And he is the only President who ever rode a horse down Broadway in New York city.

MILDLY ALARMING. While the Crackers have a rather flat lead at present, the outlook is mildly alarming.

Those Nashville Vols are behaving in a most ungentlemanly manner. They are not supposed to win so many ball games, yet they are.

This will make the people of Nashville very unhappy because if they keep it up they will be forced to go to baseball games and it always makes the Nashville people unhappy to have to go out to a game, football or baseball.

The mystery of what Nashville people do on Saturday afternoons has never been solved. This much is known—they do not go to football games. And they attend baseball games most unwillingly. There has never been any place to go in Nashville. But if this keeps up they will be forced to attend the ball games.

Our nine is in Nashville very soon. They go to Chattanooga, polish off those Lookouts, and then move into Knoxville. From there they go to Nashville.

And it is to be trusted those Vols have by that time quit this foolishness of winning a string of games. It would be very harsh of them to force the Nashville populace, which has never really attended anything, to come out to the ball games.

If they will be nice and docile our noble lads will take two or three of the three games and return home.

FREDDIE SINGTON. I know full well what Mr. Freddie Sington is thinking of these days as he steps up there and belts the baseball vigorously. His average is better than .400 and that is quite an average. Each time he belts one he says:

"Oh, I can't, eh?"

And he is thinking about Mr. Bucky Harris, who said that Freddie Sington could not hit curves.

I am delighted to see Freddie Sington, who is a grand guy, going so well. It is to be hoped, of course, he will have a slight slump when our brave and noble lads move in for the Chattanooga series. But there is no finer news than the fact that one of the better fellows in baseball is having a great year.

'Rabbit' Hops Too Far, Insists Casey Stengel

'Ball Disguised, But Numerous Home Runs Prove It's Still a 'Rabbit'.

By Paul Mickelson.

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—Down probably the saddest and most unprofitable reign of any golf king.

Rabbits. . . Professor Casey Stengel, of Flatbush, insists the "rabbit ball" is back in circulation, disguised by a shiny nose and a haircut—a glossy finish and lowered seams.

"Can't fool me," says the professor. "It's so slippery and glossy pitchers can't get a good, sharp break on their curves. And when a left-handed hitter like Moore (Eugene Moore, Boston Bee outfielder) smacks one over the left-field fence at Pittsburgh, it's proof enough for yours truly. There's been a doctor in the ball factory."

Home run statistics back up the professor, but the greater increase is noted in the American league so far this season. To date, the American has collected 170 homers to 158 in the National for a grand total of 328 with the season a little better than a fifth over. Last year, home run production for both majors totaled 1,325.

At the present rate, the grand major league total for 1936 may reach the 1,500 mark, or more.

Carl Hubbell, star southpaw of the Giants, is enjoying a strange experience in face of the home run deluge. King Carl was nicked for 26 homers last year. So far in 1936, only two circuit blows have been exploded off his delivery.

Sad music. . . Unless all form sheets are wrong again, the golfing reign of "Sad Sam" Parks, the first, will end several weeks each of Baltimore a week from Friday or Saturday. The likeable young pro, who stunned a great field to win the national open crown at Oakmont last year, has had

Luncheon for Famous Visitors Marks Red-Letter Day for Sally

By Sally Forth.

THERE should be a very special kind of crimson to mark last Saturday as a red-letter day on Sally's calendar! It should be a most brilliant red to match the brilliance of the luncheon she attended, which you have probably already guessed was that at which Dr. Thorne-Jacobs entertained in honor of his distinguished commencement visitors.

The affair was the occasion for introducing to each other the famous men and women upon whom Oglethorpe University had the honor of bestowing honorary degrees, merited because of some special accomplishment entitling each to his "place in the sun." Not all of the group arrived in time for the luncheon, but so impressed was Sally with those present that she could not find time to regret even the absence of a John Francis Neylan or a Robert Horace Baker.

So much charm and wit and intelligence assembled at one table was positively awe-inspiring! There were two Pulitzer prize winners for instance, one of whom, Margaret Ayer Barnes, was the only woman in the group to receive the honors. And Dr. Jacobs should be awarded the palm for his choice of the lone female representative.

She not only stands out from the crowd as a writer, but as a personality—a radiant, glowing personality that instantly attracts. A personality that matches the superior quality of her intellect. There are no disappointments in meeting Mrs. Barnes, for she is everything that you would expect, from her smartly bobbed hair and modish costume, to the note of pride in her voice when she tells you of her four splendid sons, two of whom are already at Harvard.

The Pulitzer prize-winning gentleman was no less a person than Thomas Sigismund Stripling, who tells a story as well as he writes it. He is tall, slender and engaging, and though he probably won't like Sally's telling you, he is an example of sartorial perfection! His deep-set eyes laugh out at you from an open, frank countenance and you straightway guess that life for him is a gay adventure, however seriously he writes.

Sharing his gaiety is his equally charming wife, who accompanied him to Atlanta. And how admirably she shares the spotlight of his genius! She is pretty enough to wear her hair drawn severely back from her face, stylish enough to have stepped from a page in Vogue, gracious and friendly enough to make you wish the Striplings lived next door.

Then there were the Coopers—the Clayton Sedgwick Coopers, if you please—who have so many claims to fame that they are hard to classify. Globe-trotters, authors, social workers, civic leaders—whatever they find to do, they seem mutually interested. That is, except for the Committee of 100, which is Mr. Cooper's one venture from which Mrs. Cooper seems excluded by design. In case you don't know, the Committee of 100 is that august organization down at Miami which ranks as the most powerful, most cosmopolitan and perhaps the wealthiest men's club in America. Mr. Cooper is the founder and president, and the Atlanta members are the Lindsey Hopkins, father and son; Dr. L. O. Bricker, Duncan Owens and John Ogden. The committee studies industrial problems and maintains a palatial clubhouse on the beach where women are not allowed except for one day in the year.

By the way, Mr. Cooper is now at work on a new book which he will call "What the Cat Thought," the idea being, he says, to get a few things off his chest. Can you imagine anyone resisting the intrigue of that title? The Cat in question, Sally understands, is a sort of roving feline who will visit Cats in other countries, Cats who are endowed with the characteristics and ideas of those countries, and who, catlike, are not afraid to speak straight from the shoulder—or the back fence, as the case may be.

If you have ever stood in awe of magazine publishers, you should meet Orson Munn! Not that the Scientific American loses caste by the introduction—far from it. To the contrary, it gains immensely by the genial, disarming and thoroughly human address of its publisher. A jovial, slightly rotund gentleman with a shy expression, Mr. Munn modestly disclaims any credit for his erudite publication, shies away from speech-making, and likes to dance at the Driving Club. Now, don't you agree with Sally that his inhibitions are enough to dispel any feelings of awe and set up highbrow magazine publishers as regular fellows?

Of course, it was like greeting a neighbor to meet President Jack Lance, of Young Harris College. An impression that was augmented by his promise to visit Sally in her office soon, which was somewhat of a consolation for the vanishing so quickly of all the others in whose distinguished company she had basked and from whom she had drawn such inspiration.

Miss Tomlinson Weds John L. Dellinger.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., May 26.—Miss Kathleen Tomlinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tomlinson, became the bride of John Louis Dellinger, of Cartersville and Chattanooga, Tenn., at a ceremony taking place Sunday at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Charles Crow officiated.

The vows were taken before an altar formed of palms in the center of which was a basket of garden flowers. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Guy Tomlinson. She was gowned in pink silk crepe and her accessories were in white. She wore sweet peas. Guy Tomlinson acted as Mr. Dellinger's best man.

The bride's gown was dusty pink chiffon featuring an all-over tucked blouse and covered buttons down the front. She wore a leghorn hat and her other accessories were in a matching shade of pink. Her flowers were a shoulder cluster of gardenias.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON. Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling unchanged to 12.25.

NEW ORLEANS, May 26.—(P)—In another quiet session today cotton prices fluctuated narrowly around the previous closing levels, finally ending from a point higher at 3 points lower.

Best prices of the day were reached around noon when both near and distant positions came in for enough buying to lift them about 25 cents a bale.

Traders scanned Washington wires closely to see what progress the amendments to the commodity control bill were making in the senate.

Continued heavy showers in the western part of the belt and reports of heavy rain in the north were the main bullish news item of the day.

Some buying cropped out in this development. Contracts were furnished by hedge selling against purchases of actual cotton.

Price-fixing by large interests also appeared in small volume.

Late business in prices was attributed to the trading of hedges in July to distant months by large spot houses.

Sales were occasional today and the majority of the trade had apparently decided to await the final outcome of the commodity bill and more definite information on this season's acreage before taking a long-term market position.

Port receipts, 12,184; week, 30,817; season, 6,528,086; last season, 4,321,012. Exports, 3,790; week, 23,037; season, 5,412,928; last season, 4,102,787. Spot sales at southern markets were 5,588; last year, 4,222.

COTTON DECLINES ON N. Y. EXCHANGE. NEW YORK, May 26.—(P)—Cotton was quiet today with moderate early advances followed by reactions under realizing and hedge selling.

October, after selling up to 10.53, closed at 10.46, with the general market steady, net 1 point higher to 4 points lower.

The opening was narrow and irregular but prices steadied up right after the call on trade buying and scattering demand promoted by steady Liverpool cables and reports of further rains in the southwest.

Exports today 3,790, making a total of 5,684,550 for the season. Port receipts 12,184. United States port stocks 1,687,401.

CHICAGO, May 26.—(P)—Parliamentary, having passed the largest budget in Japan's history and 46 other government bills, tonight ended a session begun May 1.

Only one government measure failed of passage, the "national mobilization secrets protection act." This measure had made the gathering or giving of information on industries considered essential to national defense tantamount to espionage.

The budget for the fiscal year 1930-31 totals 2,310,000,000 yen—about $670,000,000—with 45.8 of it going to the army and navy.

NEW YORK, May 26.—(P)—Stocks jagged around the market track today leaped to the front when the utilities gained from a point to a point of speed that brought one of the fastest rallies witnessed in several weeks.

In the final dash the ticker tape fell about 3 minutes after the close of trading and the close found the utilities and the close found the utilities and the close found the utilities.

Brokers described the rally, which started in the last quarter of the trading as being largely attributable to drying up of selling and the resultant buying of the utilities.

The rally was a technical one, based on the theory that the list had effected its consolidation and was ready to resume its upward push.

A factor also was said to have been the revival of reports that the Federal Reserve Board is urging the utilities to ease margin requirements.

The argument here is that recent "thinness" of trading in the accounts of numerous brokers who have been unable, under present rules, to trade profitably.

The runup of the power and light stocks was not based on any particular news happening.

Prior to the final hour the rally, accompanied by industrial specialties, were far in the lead with gains of as much as three points.

The Associated Press average of 90 issues came back 11.30 to 81.8. Transfers totaled 1,143,100, the best day's volume in about a fortnight. It compared with 669,730 shares yesterday.

There was no news development behind the final burst of buying, but it was a technical one, based on the theory that the list had effected its consolidation and was ready to resume its upward push.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD No. 129

As the pygmy warriors stood awaiting the signal to hurl their spears into Tarzan's prison, a chorus of angry growls just beyond the palisade stilled the word of command on Nyala's lips. The little men glanced toward the palisade and saw dark forms surmounting it.

"The demons are coming!" shrieked one. "It is the hairy men of the forest!" cried another. Massive figures scaled the barrier and dropped into the village. In the vanguard was a little monkey screaming: "This way, Zu-tho. This way is our friend Tarzan!"

Thus Nkima had fulfilled his mission. The ape hand had heard the call of distress which had issued from Tarzan's throat; and they had started at once to aid; but they might have arrived too late had not the little monkey guided them accurately to the village.

A huge ape rolled with giant strides toward the hut, followed by six enormous bulls. This, thought Nyala, was the last chance to prove his right to be chief. "Fight!" he shrieked; and the pygmies launched their poison spears at Tarzan's would-be rescuers!

A huge ape rolled with giant strides toward the hut, followed by six enormous bulls. This, thought Nyala, was the last chance to prove his right to be chief. "Fight!" he shrieked; and the pygmies launched their poison spears at Tarzan's would-be rescuers!

Thus Nkima had fulfilled his mission. The ape hand had heard the call of distress which had issued from Tarzan's throat; and they had started at once to aid; but they might have arrived too late had not the little monkey guided them accurately to the village.

TOWNSEND WITNESSES IGNORE HOUSE HEARING

Investigating Body Split Over Course To Follow in Pension Probe.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—Failure of two Townsend old age pension workers to appear for examination today added to the troubles of a house investigating committee already split over procedure in pressing contempt action against Dr. F. E. Townsend.

Apparently following the orders issued by Townsend shortly after he walked out on the committee last week and refused to testify, John Kiefer, of Chicago, and the Rev. Clinton Wunder, of New York, were not in the hearing room when Chairman Bell, democrat, Missouri, called their names.

Bell noted for the record that both were under committee subpoena and that neither answered when their names were called. He declined to say whether they would be cited for contempt.

The committee held a brief executive session before the open hearing. Bell said the action to be taken against Townsend "was not discussed," and that the committee "had some other matters under consideration."

Question Is Debated.
The question of whether Townsend should be tried before the bar of the house or turned over to a federal court was understood to be the chief stumbling block in the way of a definite decision on his case.

While house leaders favor transferring the question of punishment to the courts, Representative Hoffman, republican, Michigan, said the committee was "stalling for time," and contended the physician should be tried in the house.

When Kiefer and Wunder failed to appear, Bell called Representative McGroarty, democrat, California, to the stand. McGroarty, one-time leader of the house Townsend bloc, introduced a bill embodying the general principles of the Townsend plan. His measure would levy a transactions tax to raise funds for payment of monthly pensions "not to exceed $200." McGroarty conceded his bill did not provide for a flat $200 pension as claimed by the Townsend organization.

Statements Regretted.
He testified that statements to that effect were "without basis of fact," and added he "regretted the statements were made and particularly that they were made by Dr. Townsend."

The California congressman conceded under questioning that a Townsend "congressional action committee," which came here in the spring of 1935 to press for enactment of his bill had the impression Townsend was trying to prevent passage of the measure.

Bell insisted this attitude was taken by Townsend "to keep revenue coming in." McGroarty answered that "I wouldn't say that, but the committee was disappointed."

Bell further asserted that Townsend "got rid of the committee because it was too enthusiastic in its efforts for the McGroarty bill."

McGroarty conceded the committee "broke" with Townsend, but declined to agree with Bell's version of Townsend's attitude, "because that would be to say that he abandoned my bill."

The Californian said he proposed to broadcast advice to the Townsendites to retain their club organizations but to stop making contributions to the national organization.

Alabama Bandit Robs Atlanta Claim Man
A youthful armed bandit who wore a Panama hat and an R. O. T. C. uniform held up H. C. Giles, Atlanta insurance man, and escaped in his automobile taking $150 in cash, near Birmingham, Ala., at about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The robbery was reported to police here by Emory Jenks, official of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company, for which Giles is a claim representative. Jenks said Giles telephoned him of the robbery, saying the bandit brandished a .45-caliber automatic pistol.

Giles, who lives at a Peachtree street address, described the bandit as being blond and about 25 years old.

EASTERN BUS LINES PLAN LOWER CHARGES

Operators Said To Be Preparing To Meet Rail Competition.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—(AP)—Eastern bus lines were said by the National Association of Motor Bus Operators today to be planning fare cuts June 1 to keep their rate levels below those of the railroads.

Under an Interstate Commerce Commission order, rail passenger fares will be cut to 2 cents a mile in coaches and 3 cents in Pullmans beginning June 2. Similar rates already are in effect in the west and south, and the ruling thus will be felt primarily by the eastern railroads.

Most of them have filed suits challenging in federal court the legality of the order.

The bus lines, although now under supervision of the ICC, have not been ordered to cut fares. Officials of the bus association, however, said this would be done voluntarily to meet the competition of lower rail rates.

Generally, it was said, rates now averaging slightly more than 2 cents a mile will be reduced to between 1.5 and 1.75 cents, plus an average reduction of 10 per cent for round trips.

Among the lines reported offering the new rates were the Short Line System, Greyhound, Great Eastern and National Trailways. All of these operate in the northeast and New England.

WOMEN TO TELL PARTY PLANKS THEY WANT

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—A women's committee to tell the democratic party what planks democratic women of the country want adopted was organized today.

Miss Mary W. Dowson, chairman of the women's division of the party, named 14 women to the group.

Her committee: Congresswoman Caroline O'Day, New York, and Mary L. Norton, New Jersey; Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri; Miss Harriet Elliott, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mrs. Burton W. Mosser, Salt Lake City, Utah; Mrs. Ben Kizer, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams, Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Carl Pryor, Burlington, Iowa; Mrs. H. L. Lamberton Jr., Winona, Minn.; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, of Joplin, Mo., and Washington; Miss Lavinia Engle, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. John Galleher, Leesburg, Va., and Miss Jo Coffin, New York city.

MRS. WILLYS TO DROP FIGHT OVER ESTATE
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., May 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence Dolan Willys, widow of John North Willys, officially renounced today any right or interest in the automobile manufacturer's Palm Beach estate.

The action was the latest legal maneuver designed to settle a controversy over Willys' will.

Although Willys' second wife was bequeathed the estate and most of the other property, she indicated Saturday when the will was admitted to probate that she would relinquish the home to Mrs. Virginia DeLanda, only daughter of the former ambassador to Poland.

Mrs. DeLanda and other relatives had attacked the will by disposing of property valued at $3,000,000, on the ground it was drawn while Willys was under "undue influence" of Mrs. Willys.
